

LE Engagement & Development Program

Learning and Development Series

Elevate your engagement in suicide prevention and explore the next steps to further your involvement.

Join Roses in the Ocean's Learning and Development Series, exploring suicide prevention engagement opportunities and providing the foundations for individuals to further their participation.

This series, led by Roses in the Ocean's staff and community members, will provide the framework for furthering lived experience engagement and fostering change within local communities.

We invite you to take this opportunity to develop your understanding and skills in suicide prevention activities. Tailor your experience by selecting sessions that align with your areas of interest.
